

Tech and State Dropped by Four AIC Schools

CONWAY, Ark. — Four members of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference have broken off athletic relations with Arkansas Tech and Southern State and charge that the two schools are not abiding by the rules of the conference regarding recruitment of athletes.

The presidents of Ouachita College, Arkansas A&M College, Henderson State Teachers College and Arkansas State Teachers College sent signed statements to Tech and Southern last month, it was revealed here today.

The statement released by President Slad D. Snow of Arkansas State Teachers, president of the conference, said:

"Since we have reason to believe they are violating Arkansas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference rules regarding these matters, we do not wish to schedule athletic events with them beyond the current school year ending July 1. Until we are convinced they are abiding by conference regulations."

President J. W. Hull of Arkansas Tech declined to comment until after a scheduled meeting of the Tech Board of Trustees this afternoon.

Southern State President Dolph Camp said he had turned the matter over to his Faculty Athletic Committee for recommendations.

"We will find new schools to play," Camp said.

Camp said he asked for specific charges when he was notified of the action by the four schools, but was told only that "they believed we were violating rules."

Camp said Southern State awarded work scholarships to athletes are given paying jobs to help them pay their college expenses.

"All the other schools do the same thing," Camp said.

Trucker May Return to State Willingly

SUMMERVILLE, S. C. (AP) — Policemen from Arkansas and Texas arrived here late last night to question a 42-year-old truck driver who says a hitchhiking Texas woman shot herself to death in his truck.

The officers were scheduled to question David Geiger in the shooting of Mrs. Mildred Holden of Silsbee, Tex.

Geiger was arrested here, where he lives with his wife and three children, by Sheriff Herbert H. Jensen after Arkansas State Police established that Mrs. Holden was riding in a truck on the night of her death last Dec. 29.

At Little Rock, State Police Capt. Alan Templeton said Geiger "apparently" would waive extradition and return voluntarily to Arkansas for questioning.

Capt. Templeton said it was likely that the group would leave for Arkansas late today, probably arriving Saturday.

The body of the 30-year-old woman was found the following day in a ditch along side U. S. Highway 67 about a mile north of Gurdon, Ark.

An autopsy revealed that she was killed by a small caliber bullet fired at close range. The slug pierced her head.

Geiger has told officers that Mrs. Holden, whom he picked up near Beaumont, Tex., grabbed the .38 caliber pistol he carried in his truck's sleeper bunk, and shot herself.

The truck driver said Mrs. Holden offered no reason for her action prior to firing the shot. Sheriff Jensen quoted Geiger as saying he stopped the truck and dumped Mrs. Holden's body in the ditch. He didn't notify officers because he was frightened, Sheriff Jensen quoted him as saying.

Geiger drove to Detroit, and then returned to Summerville, which is the headquarters city for the company which employs him.

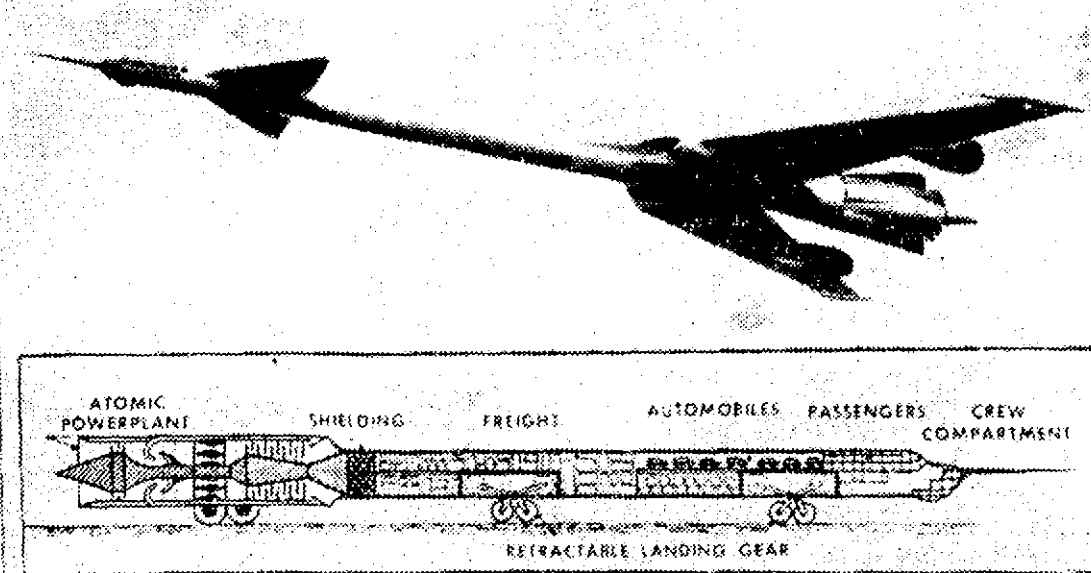

He told police he stopped in Toledo to clean the truck again. However, blood stains were found in it.

Sheriff Jensen said he didn't know if Geiger would waive extradition to return to Arkansas. Arkansas State Police Capt. Alan Templeton has said the state will attempt to force the man to return if he doesn't do so voluntarily.

Mrs. Holden hitchhiked out of her home town of Silsbee Wednesday noon. The woman had lived in Silsbee with her mother, Mrs. Jewell Blankenship. Mrs. Blankenship told police she didn't know where her daughter was going when she left home.

What Russia's Future Atomic Aircraft May Look Like

NATION WARNED — The nation received an official warning Wednesday that it could be attacked with intercontinental ballistic missiles in less than six years. The warning was coupled with the prediction that both the United States and Russia will soon have H-bombs with the punch of 50 million tons of TNT. The illustrations above detail what Soviet Russia's atomic aircraft of the future may look like. They accompanied a recent article in the Soviet technical press by a professor G. I. Pokrovski. The illustrations were published in the U. S. in American Aviation Magazine. — NEA

Montana Police Seek Slayer of Girl

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — The body of a 16-year-old blonde, a bullet through her head, was found in a rocky ravine yesterday, eight miles from the town where her Air Force sweetheart was slain.

Pretty Patricia Kalitzke's fully clothed body lay at the foot of a 20-foot embankment off a highway six miles northwest of this central Montana city.

The girl's escort, A-2C Lloyd Duane Bogle, 18, of Waco, Tex., was found face down beside his parked car Tuesday morning. His hands were bound behind his back. He also had been shot in the head.

Sheriff D. J. Leeper said there was little doubt the same person killed both.

The sheriff ruled out both sex and robbery as possible motives. He said Patricia apparently had not been attacked, and there was $5 in Bogle's wallet.

Prince Says He Will Wed Grace Kelly

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK (UP) — Prince Rainier III of Monaco announced his engagement to actress Grace Kelly today through his office in Monte Carlo. Even close friends were caught by surprise.

The glamorous couple who held hands until the wee hours this morning in a New York night club hid out from questioners even after the announcement came from Monte Carlo.

"I have no statement to make," said golden-haired Miss Kelly through her secretary. Until yesterday even her studio officials had no idea any serious romance was brewing. They kept secret their Christmas rendezvous with her family in Philadelphia.

Man Says FBI Made Him Join Commies

ALBUQUERQUE N. M. (UP) — A 45-year-old former Oakland Calif. laborer charged today the FBI forced him to join the Communist party here to serve as an undercover agent and to help expose a local Red cell.

The FBI denied the charge. Cleve Owens said in an affidavit that Communists are or have been interested in keeping close touch with employees at top-secret Sandia atomic base here which manufactures the trigger for the atomic bomb or at Kirtland Air Force Base whose planes drop the A-bomb.

War of Sexes Seems Certain—20 Million Women Will Be Seeking 17 Million Husbands

By H-L BOYLE
NEW YORK (UP) — The war between the sexes always reaches a crisis during leap year.

The old saying that "love will find a way" doesn't hold true this year. There are only 17 million possible husbands available for 20 million possible wives.

In this mathematical dilemma neither Congress nor television can dream up a giveaway program that will award every young and old maid what she wants — a real live mate.

It's a time when every smart girl becomes her own kangaroo, and leaps "thru fustest with the mostest." But in seeking a husband she must beware her tactics don't backfire.

The only real rule of the matrimonial chase is "catch as catch can." But as some overanxious

Master Imposter Who Fooled Officers, Preachers, Doctors and Everyone, Finally Jailed

By CHARLES TAYLOR

KEY WEST Fla. (UP) — The king of deceivers, brawny Fred Waldo Demara, nursed a king-sized New Year's hangover in the Key West city jail today as authorities tried to trace a string of worthless checks.

Known as "the master imposter" who has fooled preachers and prison officials, educators and the officers of two navies, Demara was hauled out of a motel room here yesterday and clapped in jail on charges of vagrancy and passing $150 worth of bad checks. The burly 6-foot man was red-eyed and unshaven and clad in a soiled white sports shirt and baggy khaki trousers.

Demara told Police Investigator Al K. Albertus he came to Key West "to commit suicide among other things." Police found a loaded and cocked .38 caliber revolver in his motel room that was littered with whisky bottles.

In his latest escapade as a deceiver, Demara was found posing as an assistant warden of the Huntsville Tex. state prison using the name of Benjamin W. Jones and the education credentials of a Dr. Benjamin W. Jones, president of Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, who said he had never heard of Demara.

When confronted with his identity, spotted in an old magazine as a prisoner, Demara stomped out of the Huntsville institution and disappeared. But prison officials said there was no crime they could charge him with and that they had been satisfied with his work as an officer in the prison's maximum security unit.

Albertus said the FBI is investigating a report that Demara passed a worthless $150 check in Houston, Tex.

In 1952, Demara was discovered posing as a surgeon in the Royal Canadian Navy. It was reported he performed successfully an "impossible" lung operation during combat in the Korean war even though he never attended a medical school and never had completed high school.

He also has posed successfully as an American sailor, a trapeze artist, a deputy sheriff and a doctor of philosophy.

ANTI-FREEZE
NEW YORK (UP) — Winter came officially yesterday on Broadway. "The Gay White Way."

Nearly 3,000 gallons of anti-freeze were added to the water that cascades at a rate of 50,000 gallons a minute over a huge waterfall sign which advertises a soft drink.

These seven major points which are designed to implement the program adopted are:

1. Immediate action by the U. S. Government to regain and hold our share of the cotton export market.

2. Further reduction of surplus by offering farmers negotiable options to buy CCC stocks of cotton and reduce prices by voluntarily reducing their cotton acreage.

3. Improve balance between supply and demand of various qualities of cotton by basing support level on the average quality of crop and adjusting loan differentials to reflect true market relationship as between individual qualities.

4. Greatly expanded research program, both publicly and privately financed, to reduce costs and improve quality.

5. Explore and attempt to develop improved price support program for cotton which will reflect increased efficiency of production so as to better meet price competition.

6. Negotiation of agreements with countries increasing textile exports to U. S. to the end that our imports may not be increased to a point where they seriously affect the U. S. cotton industry. In the event that satisfactory agreements cannot be reached, action should be taken under Section 22 of Agricultural Act which deals with cotton textile import problems.

Mandatory labeling of textile products to show clearly fiber content.

Finds No Effort to Influence News Policies

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Sen. James O. Eastland said today his subcommittee's investigation of communism among newspaper employees has found no Communist effort to influence the content of any recognized metropolitan paper.

Eastland's Senate Internal Security subcommittee today summoned Otto Albertson, 48-year-old proofreader in the New York Times composing room, as the first witness in its second day of hearings.

A Times source said Albertson had been employed by the newspaper since Sept. 1, 1945.

A reporter asked Eastland (D-Miss.) whether either public or private hearings had uncovered evidence of a Communist attempt to influence the content of a recognized metropolitan paper — as distinct from party-line publications like the Daily Worker.

"No," the chairman replied. "Of the first eight witnesses, including Albertson, seven were past or present employees of the New York Times. The eighth was David Fine, operator of a New York theater showing Russian films. Fine was not asked whether he was a Communist."

In an editorial prepared for its editions today, the Times charged it has been "singled out" by Eastland's subcommittee for attack because of its stand on segregation, "McCarthyism" and other issues. But it said it will not allow Eastland or any other outsider to determine its editorial policies in any way.

Slightly more than 20,000 Americans got polio in the first year of the mass Salk inoculation program. In 1954 the total was more than 38,400.

Polio Cases Take a Sharp Drop

Local Group to Memphis Cotton Meet
Five members of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau are to attend a meeting of Farm Bureau leaders and cotton producers at Memphis tomorrow. States to be represented are Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, and Missouri.

Charles B. Shuman, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation and John C. Lynn, Legislative Director, will attend the meeting to discuss with cotton producers from the valley area, Farm Bureau's recently adopted seven-point cotton program, which was adopted by the American Farm Bureau Federation Board to carry out the resolutions which were passed by the voting delegates at the recent American Farm Bureau Federation annual convention.

Ike Warns of Threat From Russia, China; Rules Out Any Tax Cut

Balanced Budget Seen Next Two Years

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower today ruled out any tax cut now.

He forecast a balanced budget both this year and next, despite needs for increased spending at home and abroad.

But the President, in his State of the Union message to Congress, said a tax cut can not be justified until such time as it "will not unbalance the budget."

He said all excise taxes must be continued at their present rates. And the corporation income tax must be continued at the present rate of 52 per cent for another year. Unless Congress acts, these taxes are scheduled for reductions April 1.

As for the personal income tax and taxes in general he said:

"Under conditions of high peacetime prosperity, such as now exist, we can never justify going further into debt to give ourselves a tax cut at the expense of our children."

"So, in the present state of our financial affairs, I earnestly believe that a tax cut can be deemed justifiable only when it will not unbalance the budget, a budget which makes provision for some reduction, even though modest, in our national debt. In this way we can best maintain fiscal integrity."

The President said "the outlook is bright with promise" but warned that Russia has "demonstrated conclusively" it is not yet willing to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace.

Things Normal in Nation's Food Stores
By The Associated Press
Things are getting back to normal this week in the nation's food stores and the old standbys — beef, pork and lamb — again head the list of specials at the meat counters.

The housewife will find various types of beef roasts and steaks featured in many areas. While beef prices generally remain unchanged, one major chain is offering pot roast and boneless chuck at four to six cents a pound below last week's prices.

There also is little change in the prices of loin veal chops and leg of lamb, both of which have been good buys in recent weeks.

Some other meats are higher now. One chain has upped prices of loin pork chops four cents a pound in Boston, Pittsburgh and Chicago, and 10 cents a pound in Philadelphia. Frying chickens also will cost from two to 10 cents a pound more than last week over much of the country. Eggs too are generally higher.

State of Union Message Tells of Counter Plan

By DONALD J. GONZALES
WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower warned Congress today that Soviet Russia and Red China continue to pose "a serious threat to the free world."

To meet the two-front Communist challenge, Mr. Eisenhower said in his State of the Union message that the United States must intensify its military foreign aid and other efforts "to achieve a just peace."

The President said the Big Four foreign ministers meeting at Geneva in October "demonstrated conclusively that the Soviet leaders are not yet willing to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace."

He said it was clear that the conflict between the international Communism and freedom had taken on a new complexion in the past year.

"We know the Communist leaders have often practiced the tactics of retreat and zig-zag," the President said in his annual message. "We know that Soviet and Chinese Communism still poses a serious threat to the free world. And in the Middle East, Russian soviet moves are hardly compatible with the reduction of international tension."

"Yet Communist tactics against the free nations have shifted to emphasis from reliance on violence and the threat of violence to reliance on division, enticement and duplicity."

"We must be well prepared to meet the current tactics which pose a dangerous though less obvious threat."

The President thus indirectly assailed Russia for backing the sale of Communist arms to Egypt and condemned the recent words of hate spread by Soviet leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

Mr. Eisenhower made the following recommendations to combat the new Soviet tactics:

1. Continue to maintain an effective system of collective security based on "clear warning that armed aggression will be met by joint action of the free nations and deterrent military power to make that warning effective."

2. "Moreover, the awesome power of the atom must be made to serve as a guardian of the free community and of the world."

President-elect of Brazil Is Visiting Ike
By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — President Eisenhower today welcomed President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil to the United States. They spent 30 minutes together at a breakfast meeting.

Kubitschek flew to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters as the first stop on a trip that takes him on to Washington and New York.

The Brazilian leader was driven immediately to Eisenhower's quarters here where the President was waiting. They shook hands warmly and Kubitschek apologized for being late.

"I'm sorry you have to leave so early," Eisenhower said. "I told them to pour the coffee and be ready to go as soon as we get in there."

Several other guests were at the breakfast, including the president's brother, Milton; diplomatic representatives; and Gen. Alfred Gruenther, NATO commander who is visiting the President.

Afterward, Kubitschek hurried back to the airport, taking off for Washington where he was due to address the Senate and House.

Adenauer Observes His 80th Birthday

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today celebrated his 80th birthday. The Western world's oldest chief of government of a major nation. Tributes flowed in from around the globe. Pope Pius XII awarded the West German leader—a Roman Catholic—the Vatican's second highest award, the Order of the Golden Spur.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru telegraphed congratulations and expressed the hope that Adenauer might long continue to serve his people.

President Eisenhower sent a personal letter of congratulations. Prime Minister Eden's message saluted Adenauer's work for West European cooperation. Another noted octogenarian, Sir Winston Churchill, wished the Chancellor "greatest happiness and success."

be done, but each woman is on her own and in this problem will get no help from me. I'm a married man myself.

To win a middle-aged widower with offspring you must do two things. First, write the U. S. Children's Bureau for a pamphlet on how to get along with children. Apply this knowledge to his kids. Give them a firm kindness and love. Once they want to have you around, he'll have to have you to do it to handle him. Treat him kindly so that he'll feel like one of the children, too. But also bawl him out occasionally - so that he won't get too lonesome for his first wife.

The veteran, professional bachelor is a tougher nut to crack. He is full of bad habits, wary of women, thinks he knows what he wants out of life and is sure it isn't marriage.

To try to reform a pro bachelor is to become his victim. The right approach is to encourage him in his bad habits until he breaks down with an ulcer or a heart attack - then he is wide open for marriage.

Wifehood in this case, of course generally is also nursehood, and I am eternally amazed at the number of wonderful women who seek to marry this type of man and seem happy in their fate. The answer lies in the unblemished well of woman's everlasting mystery.

There is no set, sure way to win the fourth type - the amateur bachelor. You have to improvise with young fellows today. They get more difficult every year.

But here are a few general tips that should stand up:

If he catches common cold, try to avoid coming down with pneumonia yourself. A man is afraid of a woman who can always outdo him.

If he invites you up to a home-cooked meal in his apartment, don't complain about how he burned the canned spaghetti. Remember, after you're married, you can bring in good well-cooked spaghetti from the nearest delicatessen.

Cry once on his shoulder: during a sentimental movie but only once. Every man liked to know his wife has a soft heart, but no man ever married Niagara Falls.

If your boy friend borrows your car and you feel sure it's to take out another girl on a date, don't hide in the back seat to try to overhear what they say.

If you are paying for a night out on the town, don't give him the money in public. Just slip him your wallet and murmur, "Honey, let's you and me and the pocket-book go as far as we can together."

To boil it all down, all normal young bachelors are lousy and uncomfortable, but hate to admit it openly. Your problem is simply to show him in feminine way how he could have a much better life hitched with you - but not so much better a life that he becomes frightened with the thought it will change him too much.

So, young lady, if you would lead a young man over the hurdle of matrimony, lead him gently. Don't shove - he may balk.

Remember, you're not fooling with one guy out of a million. He's one out of 17 million - and there are 19,999,999 other single American ladies who might be looking for a chance to snare him.

DOROTHY DIX

These Parental Edicts Show Sound Reasoning

Dear Miss Dix: My parents are terribly strict. They won't even let me go out with boys who have cars unless they know everything about them. If I ask about a date, I'm told my folks have to see the boy first. They tell me to invite him over, but that usually scares my potential date away. I'm fairly popular at school and have fun in all activities, but always have to refuse dates.

Answer: Your folks aren't strictly merely cautious. If all parents followed the same line of reasoning, teenagers would get into much less trouble.

A boy of politeness and consideration expects to meet the girl's parents and is fully prepared for the "ordeal," which invariably turns out to be a very pleasant evening. A girl of 15 shouldn't be allowed to ride with a teen-ager driver unless her parents know and approve of him. So, revise your criticism of your parents and co-operate with them instead.

See A Doctor. Dear Miss Dix: For 10 years I have been happily married to a man I dearly love. We have four children. At present we rent in an undesirable section but are trying to save to buy a home. My trouble is that everything upsets me. The least little thing will send me into tears, and I guess to those at home I'm pretty hard to live with.

Answer: The normal difficulties of raising four small children are complicated in your case by the fact that you are made unhappy by your neighborhood. Your strength just isn't sufficient to cope with all the problems, so tears are your only outlet.

Why not see a doctor? This is the obvious, but too often overlooked, solution to excessive fatigue or nerves. Perhaps an extra dose of vitamins will serve to dry those tears and give you renewed patience and energy.

Dear Miss Dix: The other day my girl friend and I did a very silly thing. We called a boy we know and admire, and gave phony names. I think he knows who it was, though because he mentioned our names and asked if it was us. We, of course, said no. He made an excuse to hang up after a few minutes, and we now feel so embarrassed about it. What can we do?

DESPERATE AND WORRIED. Answer: This is a typical young teen-age stunt that has been going on since there have been telephones. Of course the boy guessed your identities; your voices and in flections gave you away immediately. Make a joke out of it.

The next time you see the boy admit the deception, perhaps saying you thought it would be easier to fool him than it was. Admiration for his cleverness won't exactly hurt your cause. Otherwise, forget the whole thing and don't repeat it.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been, and still am, going with a boy who is a mom's boy. She pets him, spoils him, gives in to him on every count and he expects the girls he does with to do the same. They go where he wants to go, the girl is never considered. I have heard from all the girls he's dated that this is his system; now he's doing the same to me. He seems to think a lot of me but still what I like or want, doesn't seem to matter. He's 23 and I'm 17.

Answer: When the boy's unpleasant habits are so noticeable, why bother to go with him? At your age, particularly, boys should be fun; dating should be a pleasure, not an aggravation. Since the boys' contrariness is well known, it would seem very foolish for you to go ahead. Turn your attention to more flexible youths.

Answer: This country, therefore, he said, must remain strong at home and abroad although he promised that, "we shall preserve in seeking a general reduction of armaments under effective inspection and control."

This was Mr. Eisenhower's fourth State of the Union message but his first to be read to Congress rather than delivered in person.

In it he outlined a broad program of legislation in both domestic and foreign fields. He said his proposals would "further promote the release of the energies of our people... broaden opportunity for all of them... advance the republic in its leadership toward a just peace."

If approved, he said, his program would contribute to building an "ever-stronger, ever - better America." The President asked for continued cooperation with our Allies, and recommended a new program of economic aid. He said we must "sustain and fortify" our existing mutual security program.

On the home front, the President called for:

"Constant improvement" of our defense structure.

A new program to help farmers, including a double-barreled "soil bank" plan to reduce acreage and cut big government surpluses. He urged that farm legislation be kept out of politics.

A broad new highway program. A new system of federal assistance in natural disasters, including a five-year program or federal aid in building schools.

He said he would recommend later "further expansion" of social security coverage.

He asked for a stepped up program of federal aid for medical research and said he would recommend later a new plan for assistance to medical schools.

He said the government should take steps to cushion the heavy and rising costs of illness and hospitalization. He said this should be done either by federal reinsurance of voluntary health insurance policies or by some other method.

peace." This constituted a warning to the Russians that atomic weapons would be used against aggression if absolutely necessary.

3. The mutual security program of military and economic aid to anti-communist nations must be continued and "fortified." The President gave no figures but the administration plans to ask Congress for an expanded foreign aid program. Congress will be asked to authorize a $490,000,000 program compared with approximately $2,700,000 authorized for the current fiscal year.

4. In a new move the President asked Congress "to grant limited authority" to make longer term commitments for economic aid projects to friendly nations.

5. Promote in the Near East "a fair solution of the tragic dispute between the Arab states and Israel all of whom we want as our friends." He called on both sides to join the United States in making contributions to enduring peace in the troubled area.

6. The President's proposal at the July summit conference at Geneva to allay mutual suspicions by swapping military blue-prints and aerial reconnaissance facilities with Russia is "squarely before the bar of world opinion."

This was brought about by the United Nations which voted 56-7 on Dec. 16 to endorse the proposals as a step towards disarmament. The United States will "persevere in seeking a general reduction of armaments under effective inspection and control which are essential safeguards to insure reciprocity and protect the security of all."

Polio Hits a New Low in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Only six Arkansas children who received injections of the Salk anti-polio-vaccine contracted paralytic polio during 1955 as Arkansas' polio total slipped to its lowest point in seven years.

In a final report yesterday the State Health Department said 180 cases of polio were recorded last year. This was slightly more than half the 364 cases recorded in the state during 1954, and the lowest total since 140 cases in 1948.

A spokesman for the department said the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk made a "significant contribution" to the drop. "Of course, the polio virus runs in cycles," he said. "However, it would be unreasonable to assume that the Salk vaccine did not play a major role in the overall decline."

William H. Sneed, a state representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, agreed. He quoted from a natural report showing polio hospital admissions of 8 and 9-year-old children were down between 40 and 52 per cent.

Dr. A. M. Washburn, director of the Health Department's division of Communicable Diseases, said 87,832 Arkansas Children between the ages of 5 and 9 received at least one anti-polio shot during the year. Of the total 202,063 Children eligible for free injections, 114,231 did not accept them, he said.

In this age group 52 cases of polio were recorded. Sixteen of the victims had been inoculated 30 had not, he said. Twenty-three of the cases involved paralysis, but only six of these victims had received injections, said Dr. Washburn.

The Salk vaccine was made available to children throughout Arkansas for the first time last year. In 1954, 5,029 children in the state's five most populous counties were inoculated in part of a nationwide test of the program.

Dr. Washburn said the department did not have a county-by-county breakdown of the polio cases.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Sheriff Tom Gulley says he is "restudying the entire case" in the death of a man whose body was found near here last week with a view toward the possibility that the victim took his own life.

The man was identified by fingerprints yesterday as Joseph Stanislaus Kustelski, 42, of Winona, Minn.

"This man's brother, Frank said Joseph had been despondent and nervous for several weeks," said Gulley. "Now I'm restudying the entire case."

Sheriff Gulley who had thought Kustelski was murdered, said he based the theory on the fact that all marks of identification were removed from the man's clothing, and that his billfold was missing. "He may have removed all identification from his clothes himself to shield his family," said the sheriff.

Kustelski's body was found five miles southwest of Little Rock near U.S. Highway 67 by two young rabbit hunters. Coroner Howard Dinsburgh said Kustelski was strangled by a leather belt, which was knotted around his neck. The coroner never has ruled on whether he was murdered or committed suicide.

Although Kustelski's billfold was missing, officers found $10.27 in his pockets and he was wearing a wrist watch, virtually ruling out the possibility that he was murdered for money.

Westinghouse, Union to Try With Talks

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Top-level disputants in the violence-ridden Westinghouse strike meet in this City of Brotherly Love today in hopes of settling a 12-day walk-out.

James H. Haggerty, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, yesterday asked two company and two union officials to meet with him here. He gave no reason for shifting the scene of negotiations from Pittsburgh, where Westinghouse headquarters are located.

The union representatives were James B. Carey, president of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, and Al Hartnett, union secretary-treasurer.

Both sides gave up in despair in negotiations yesterday after club-swinging disorder broke out at a plant in Columbus, Ohio. It was the most serious of a series of picket-line disputes.

A 34-year-old picket died of a heart attack in the clash, according to the coroner, and 8 persons

President Relaxes From 'Messages'

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—President Eisenhower, his work completed on two major messages to Congress, arranged to take it "completely easy" today.

James C. Haggerty, White House press secretary, said that for the first time since the President arrived here a week ago he had scheduled no work session on government business.

"This is a day when it looks like he can take it completely easy," Haggerty said.

Eisenhower, in Key West on his doctors' recommendation that he get more outdoor exercise in convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack, completed work yesterday on the State of the Union message and the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The White House announced that at breakfast tomorrow Eisenhower will be host here to President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil.

He was hospitalized and 80 persons, including 12 women, were jailed.

The union called the death of picket Troy Tadlock "murder on the picket line" and said he was beaten. County authorities said there were no marks of violence on his body.

Prestige of Eden Hits a New Low

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's waning prestige with the Conservative press hit a new low today when the Daily Sketch advised him either to supply the "guts of leadership" or quit.

The tabloid strongly supported Eden and his Conservative party in the national election only eight months ago. Today, in a front-page editorial, it accused him of "feebleness and lambliness" toward foreign policy problems and Britain's worsening inflation.

"If he does not tackle inflation, his days in Downing Street the official residence of the Prime Minister are numbered," one Sketch declared.

The editorial said members of Eden's own party are saying, "If he cannot make up his mind to govern, let him make up his mind to go."

In later editions the Sketch toned its editorial down considerably but still said the Prime Minister's critics complained that he "will do nothing until he is shoved into it, that he drifts rather than makes decisions."

The blast in the Sketch climaxed a week of severe criticism during which even the staunchly Conservative Daily Telegraph and Daily Mail turned on Eden, once their fair-haired boy.

Sees Highways as Snarling Congress

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said today the 1956 Congress may get snarled up in a dispute over how a big chunk of new highway construction money should be distributed among the states.

He told a reporter he is confident Congress eventually will enact a highway bill somewhat along the lines of this measure which the Senate approved last May.

However, he said a difference of opinion on how to allocate funds for the interstate system creates added hazards for the legislation. The interstate system, a 40,000-mile network of key roads, would get the bulk of the new funds under all the major highway aid plans pending in Congress.

The Gore bill called for about 18 billion dollars in federal-state spending for highways over a five-year period. Since new taxes must originate in the house, it did not provide any new financing.

The House Public Works Committee then drafted a bill calling for about 50 billion in federal-state outlays over the next 13 years. It included 12 1/2 billion in new federal taxes over that period to help pay for Uncle Sam's share.

RUNAWAY TEMPERATURE
CHICAGO, (UP)—The temperature in Chicago jumped from sub-zero, zipped through the 70's and hit a peak of 120 degrees in a matter of seconds last night—according to a giant temperature sign.

But Chicagoans weren't fooled. The official temperature was 28 degrees and felt like it.

GREAT Circle

BY ROBERT CARSO

CHAPTER XXVIII

For Kaul, cold had been a word in the missionaries' books. Like snow, or iceberg. He had believed that he had understood it when he had encountered a great wind of storm force upon the sea and he had been chill and wet. But as the Obis proceeded on her course towards Cape Horn he found that he was wrong.

The ancient stories of his people telling of the voyages to Hawaii recited many dangers, but nowhere did they speak of cold. Then Naish gave him heavy clothing, woolen trousers and a sweat-soaked knit cap a pea jacket. He delighted in them as a gift from his friend and because they were new and strange quickly learned to dislike their bulky weight.

He felt stifled wearing them and took them off as much as possible. The boots galled his feet; he was far happier barefoot. During the hours of sunlight, he followed it around the ship, basking in the warmth, turning his body to the rays and watching it with apprehension when it was masked by cloud. But with sunset he had to put the clothing back on in numb dejection while his hands shook, his teeth chattered, his body stooped as if from the effects of a terrific blow.

But there was solace for him in the fact that the others in the crew despite their Northern birth also hated the cold. "The whole shebang's been too long in the sun," Naish told him. "Our blood's thinned out. A man gets accustomed to this, though."

"How much?" Kaul said.

"Not much," Naish said. "You'll just have to do your best."

The night watches were the worst. Alone then in the darkness the watch by Naish's permission huddled in the galley, the man at the wheel so occupied by his steering that he had no time for conversation, Kaul miserably stalked the quarter deck. He called his people's mythology and was convinced that somehow he had been condemned to the ultimate torture. This was Rua, the abyss at the bottom of many abysses in the furthest waves of the underworld. He wasn't fated to meet Miru. No, he didn't have such luck. Miru, the ogress, burned her victims in an oven. His fate, of course, was to freeze to death.

When his watch was finished he went into the galley. Tomorrow, who was cook for the simple reason that he was fatter than the rest, had a pan of chicken and pork scraps on the back of the stove. Kaul ate, ate some more, drank another mug of tea, and his body radiated, he was marvelously alive.

Down in the main cabin while he sat at the table and wrote up his log, sleep began to come in over him. He walked along the passageway to his own cabin and he did nothing but take off his pea jacket, cap and boots before he lowered down into the bunk and pulled the blankets over him. They were coarse and at first he had been made uncomfortable by their harshness. But they were warm. On Rutuoa under the sun there'd never been any sleep like this.

Due to the fact that they were so short-handed a feeling of close, almost brotherly kinship grew among the men. At Naish's order, the fore'sle was abandoned. All of the crew lived aft in the quarters that had formerly belonged to the petty officers, and they ate in turn at the main cabin table. Watches were shortened without formal agreement, and on particularly rough nights men volunteered to relieve the wheel and the lookout. Clothing was shared, and tobacco, pipes. Knives were lent freely.

But beneath his surface geniality, Kaul suspected that Bothwick had disliked him. The Gloucester man could not give himself as freely to the relaxation of obvious discipline. He was by nature reserved, remote. When he relieved Kaul on the quarter deck he was curt. At meals in the main cabin he was careful to speak only to Naish, or if Naish was on deck, to Larned. He doesn't consider you to be much of a mate, Kaul thought, and the man's right. You're not, yet.

Then in the week that they squared away on their masting and began to run down the latitude of the Cape Horn passage they were driven by a succession of tremendous storms and Bothwick, weary to the point of hysteria, lost his patience and spoke out openly to Naish before Kaul.

"You've appointed your friend a mate, sir," Bothwick said harshly. "Yet he can't navigate and his log-book work is all but illegible. He's been performing his duties long enough. My suggestion is that he learn to navigate at once or that you train some other man who can."

The three were crouched together by the lee rail caught in a slamming pelt of spray while over them the sparker lay iron-hard to the wind. Naish lifted one hand from the rail and seized Bothwick by the shoulder and shook him. His face was suddenly very pale, his eyes shiny.

"Don't speak so about any man in my ship," he said. "Never again, never, when he's within hearing. Would you stand for such an insult yourself?"

"I might be forced to if I was as deficient in my duties," Bothwick shrugged his shoulder out of Naish's grasp. "Which is better for him? To hear the fact from me, or some mess of bludge from you?"

"You stand relieved mister," Naish said, his voice still furious. "Go below where you belong. If you don't, I will be tempted to knock the stuffing out of you."

Sevenfoot Bill Uhl and his Dayton Flyers return to action after a week's vacation tonight against tough Duquesne in an effort to extend their undefeated string to 10 games.

Dayton is No. 3 in the Associated Press poll, ranking behind San Francisco and North Carolina State.

After tonight's game, the Flyers must tangle with Duquesne again at the final end of the season. Next month they play Memphis State, which, incidentally, has gone over 100 points four times this season. It vanquished Miami (Fla.) 79-71 in the Senior Bowl semifinal last night and will meet George Washington tonight.

Lloyd Aubrey made Notre Dame history last night when he broke the Irish field house scoring record with a 43-point binge in an 83-60 victory over Butler. The Irish zipped to a 43-34 halftime lead. Maryland warmed up to its George Washington battle tonight by clubbing South Carolina 76-57. Coach Bud Millikan of the Terps had a long look at his second stringers.

In another AAC contest, Lefty Davis scored 26 points to lead Wake Forest to an 84-71 "sweet revenge victory over Duke. Only last week, the Deacons dropped a 64-52 decision to the Dukes in the Dixie Classic.

Other noteworthy events last night: Biggest upset—Belmont Abbey 64-32 over Richmond. Undeclared—Temple won No. 7, turning back Lehigh 81-48. Streaks—St. Bonaventure won 59th in a row at home, whipping Le Moyne 80-70.

Seton Hall, practically always a power, made a fresh bid to get in the top 20 by selling down Loyola of Baltimore 80-54 for its ninth victory in 10 starts.

Oklahoma City polished off Tulsa 58-5 to reverse a result of last week, while Arkansas State smothered College of the Pacific 87-30.

Fullmer Beats Castellani by Split Decision

By BILL NEWKIRK

CLEVELAND (AP) — At last, a victorious fighter who doesn't want to take on the champion next.

Brawler Gene Fullmer, winner of a split decision over Rock Castellani last night in a blood-splashed 10-rounder at Cleveland Arena, says he'd much prefer another crack at Argentinian Eduardo Lausse to a middleweight title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson. Fullmer dropped a decision to Lausse last November.

"I just don't like to have someone running around who's beaten me, that's all," Fullmer declared in his dressing room after his bruising charges won the nod over Castellani's clever counter-punching. "I'll get to Robinson in time."

Last night's nationally televised bout left many of the 1,487 arena spectators, as well as the judges, in disagreement as to which fighter should have won.

Castellani, despite blood streaming from a deep cut over his right eye from the sixth round on, was fresh at the finish and appeared to have Fullmer in trouble the last two rounds.

Fullmer, however, was willing to take the best Castellani could offer. Bleeding himself from a gash across his hairline, he kept driving in to the end on legs that steadily lost steam after the eighth round.

Through most of the fight the pattern was the same — Fullmer charging, falling with both arms; Castellani caught many of the blows on his gloves and elbows and countered with hooks and up-purcuts.

Judge Herb Williams scored it 96-92 for Fullmer. Referee Lou Parker saw it 97-94 for Fullmer and Judge Charley Boll decided with a 95-92 vote for Castellani. The AP card had it 97-93 for Castellani.

Patty Berg Woman Athlete of Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
 Of The Associated Press

Patricia Jane Berg who once quarterbacked a football team that included Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson, was the Woman Athlete of the Year for 1955 in the opinion of the nation's sports writers and sports broadcasters.

The stocky, 35-year-old Patty won this honor entirely on her ability as a professional golfer. Her football playing days as one of the 50th Street Tigers in Minneapolis ended a good many years ago—before she took up golf at the age of 15.

Both had the air of men with the will to win.

Both were virtually dominated pro football during the past six years.

Brown's Cleveland Browns have won six straight divisional titles and three world championships. Parker, although his Detroit Lions fell from the peak this past season, won three divisional championships in five years and two world titles.

The major difference noted in their coaching of the Senior Bovvers was that Brown devoted most of the early practice to individual tutoring of the players while Parker turned more to drills featuring team play.

Brown worked his South quarterbacks, Bob Hardy of Kentucky and George Herring of Mississippi Southern, repeatedly on a hand-off or pitchout. Parker put his offensive and defensive units together early and turned loose his quarterbacks, Jerry Reichow of Iowa and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin.

Both coaches turned largely to pass patterns in yesterday's workout and Reichow and Haluska looked a bit more effective than Hardy and Herring on their aeriels.
